The Argead Dominion is the last holdout against the Imperial Padishah's brutal westward expansion. An aging arsenal of decaying tanks and antique rifles lets Argead forces scrape by, but true victories are won by the Polaris: elite battle-mages enslaved for the world-ending sins of their ancestors. Taki is an ambitious Polaris stuck with the dregs of his kind in a squad named Tfirefire the Lesser. Though career suicide might be bearable in the right company, his new companions are anything but. The sniper despises him, the man-at-arms is profoundly depressed, and his beautiful captain has a penchant for beating her underlings. As the invading horde draws closer, this squad of defectives must band together despite the long odds against them. But with Imperial assassins out for their blood and treachery from within their own ranks, survival will come with a high price.

The audience for this book is that group whose job is "selling," and who desire to hone the skills associated with their profession and advance from "salesperson" to "sales professional" and to continue their professional development until having achieved the penultimate role in sales: that of "Trusted Advisor" to his or her customer or client. The author recognizes that the complexity associated with selling to "Major Accounts" requires a unique skill set, methodology and sales framework, and a degree of professionalism to deal with such accounts, which are characterized by having multiple decision makers, a longer sales cycle - ranging from six months to two years or more, and a higher dollar volume as represented by both "deal size" and annual sales volume. As comfortable on "Mahogany Row" dealing with C-Level executives as with dealing at the Project Manager level, it is the unique combination of skills, poise, bearing, professionalism and commitment to continued professional development that characterizes the successful Sales Professional in this role.
