Cinematic Mythmaking: Philosophy in Film. Film is the supreme medium for mythmaking. The gods and heroes of mythology are both larger than life and deeply human; they teach us about the world, and they tell us a good story. Similarly, our experience of film is both distant and intimate. Cinematic techniques--panning, tracking, zooming, and the other tools in the filmmaker's toolbox--create a world that is unlike reality and yet realistic at the same time.

continues his philosophical exploration of the nature of love by posing the interesting question: How do movies modernize mythology. In the course of his discussion of the cinematic treatment of a variety of romantic myths, including Dido and Aeneas, Orpheus, Tristan and Iseult, Pygmalion and Galatea, and Don Juan, it becomes clear that cinephilia is one of the loves being explored in this book.
