The Box Man is about a peculiar form of homelessness in which a person inhabits a large cardboard box with a curtain viewing slot for interacting with the outside world. The narrator begins by shooting a box man with an air rifle, before deciding to become one himself when he orders a new refrigerator and gets an ideal box for the role.

The Box Man, avant-garde satiric novel by Abe K?b?, published in Japanese in 1973 as Hako otoko. A bizarre commentary on contemporary society, The Box Man concerns a man who relinquishes normal life to live in a “waterproof room,” a cardboard box that he wears on his back. Like a medieval Buddhist monk, the man observes society’s goings-on but disdains any interaction with the world he has abandoned as a mad place.
