The Poster: Art, Advertising, Design, and Collecting, 1860s-1900s is a cultural history that situates the poster at the crossroads of art, design, advertising, and collecting. Though international in scope, the book focuses especially on France and England. Ruth E. Iskin argues that the avant-garde poster and the original art print played an important role in the development of a modernist language of art in the 1890s, as well as in the adaptation of art to an era of mass media. She moreover contends that this new form of visual communication fundamentally redefined relations between word and image: poster designers embedded words within the graphic, rather than using images to illustrate a text. Posters had to function as effective advertising in the hectic environment of the urban street. Even though initially commissioned as advertisements, they were soon covered by collectors. Iskin introduces readers to the late nineteenth-century OiconophileŌna new type of collector/curator/archivist who discovered in poster collecting an ephemeral archaeology of modernity. Bridging the separation between the fields of art, design, advertising, and collecting, IskinŌs insightful study proposes that the poster played a constitutive role in the modern culture of spectacle. This stunningly illustrated book will appeal to art historians and students of visual culture, as well as social and cultural history, media, design, and advertising.

Magic abounds in this tall, deluxe pop-up carousel that brings Hogwarts School to life! Open the book and then tie the covers together with the purple ribbons for an impressive permanent carousel in your child's room or fold it back up for easy reshelving. Children will adore identifying rooms and objects they remember from the beloved Harry Potter series, with plenty of flaps to lift and tabs to slide to unveil the ghosts and things that go bump in the night. You can even see where Harry Potter sleeps, and lift the lid of the trunk at the end of his bed! The carousel also features a sheet of punch-out cardboard characters from Severus Snape to Hagrid, so imaginative youngsters can move them around the school. --amazon.com.

Lisa Yee gives us her most fascinating flawed genius since Millicent Binn. Higgs Bosen Bing has seven days left before his perfect high school career is completed. Then it's on to Harvard to fulfill the fantasy portrait of success that he and his parents have cultivated for the past four years. Four years of academic achievement. Four years of debate championships. Two years of dating the most popular girl in school. It was, literally, everything his parents could have wanted. Everything they wanted for Higgs's older brother Jeffrey, in fact. But something's not right. And when Higgs's girlfriend presents him with a seemingly innocent hypothetical question about whether or not he'd give her a kidney . . . the exposed fault lines reach straight down to the foundations of his life. . . .

This warm, beautiful collection captures the awkward, unusual, and utterly adorable antics of William Wegman's famous dogs as puppies. Color photos throughout.
