This fully revised new edition offers a comprehensive picture of the law of maritime delimitation, incorporating all new cases and State practice in this field. As with all types of law, the law of maritime delimitation should possess a degree of predictability. On the other hand, as maritime delimitation cases differ, flexible considerations of geographical and non-geographical factors are also required in order to achieve equitable results. How, then, is it possible to ensure predictability while taking into account a number of diverse factors in order to achieve an equitable result?

This is the question at the heart of the law of maritime delimitation. This book explores a well-balanced legal framework that reconciles predictability and flexibility in the law of maritime delimitation by looking at three aspects of the question: first it reviews the evolution of the law of maritime delimitation; second, it undertakes a comparative study of the case law and State practice; and

third, it critically
assesses the law of maritime delimitation in its current form.

This book is a state-
of-the-art report on

Implementation of the Convention -

from the perspective of interaction of politics and law - is the unifying theme of the book. Under this, three basic aspects have emerged as crucial
during the 1990s:
(1) evolution of
new regimes; (2)
institutionalisation;
and (3) new

patterns of participation.

These are explored
systematically in sections on: the

institutions (Parts I

Cases The Continental Shelf Vols 1-2

This 2004 book aims at advancing our understanding of the influences international norms and international institutions have over the incentives of states to cooperate on issues such as environment and trade. Contributors adopt two different approaches in examining this question. One approach focuses on the constitutive

elements of the international legal order, including
customary
international law,
soft law and
framework

conventions, and on the types of incentives states have, such as domestic incentives and reputation. The other approach examines specific issues in the areas of international environment protection and international trade.

The combined outcome of these two approaches is an understanding of the forces that pull states toward closer cooperation or prevent them from doing so, and the impact of different types of international norms and diverse institutions on the motivation of states. The insights gained suggest ways for enhancing states' incentives to cooperate through the design of norms and institutions.

The delimitation of maritime zones is an important requirement for
